The Vice-President Women represents cis and trans women students, as well as those with complex gender identities who identify in any way with the term woman, to the University, and external audiences. They lead in policy making, campaigning and lobbying work in conjunction with other Officers, on gender inequality issues at the University of Oxford. They take responsibility for driving forward action on gender inequality in University of Oxford at a student level; and promote the importance and value of work on gender inequality across the whole work of Oxford SU. They also support student parents and liaise with the University on behalf of students. They are an Officer Trustee and play a key role in relationship between Student Council and the Trustee Board.

Only a student member who, wholly or partly, self-identifies as a woman or as transfeminine can stand for Vice-President (Women)
